La Mer incorporates sound healing principles into their spa treatments to create a holistic, multisensory experience that enhances both relaxation and skin rejuvenation. Sound healing, an ancient practice that uses vibrational frequencies to promote physical and emotional well-being, is seamlessly integrated into La Mer's luxurious treatments. The brand believes that sound frequencies can help calm the mind, reduce stress, and align the body's energy, which in turn supports the skin's natural healing and regeneration processes.

During La Mer spa treatments, soothing soundscapes or specific sound frequencies are paired with the application of their products. The vibrations from the sound are believed to enhance the absorption of active ingredients, such as the Miracle Broth™, while promoting a deep sense of tranquility. By incorporating sound healing, La Mer creates an immersive experience that not only nourishes the skin but also supports overall well-being, enhancing the effectiveness of their products and fostering a complete sense of rejuvenation.
